BEFORE AND AFTER

Somehow those opposing words come in our mind with vivid force each time we come to consider the matter of housing the additional employees that are coming to work in the new wire and rod mills of the Wheeling Steel Corporation, and who will have to find homes for their families, if they are to become permanent and useful citizens, as both they and we desire they shall.

Before the coming of the steel mill, along with the railroad, criminals, Portsmouth was a pretty much of a one cylinder town. When its one main industry went idle she was prostrated. Now such has been her growth and increase in diversified industries, that the slowing up of one does not mean a general depression.

Indisputably the steel works have put a hopefulness and a vitality into the business and spirit of the town that it would have never known but for them.

That is one before and after, but another seems really of more honor and more fortune than this one just considered. This latter is this:

The steel company did not have to erect the wire and rod mills here. There were other steel plants, owned and operated by it, where the addition could have been quite as advantageously located. But Portsmouth was chosen because Portsmouth gave its word that suitable homes would be built for the workmen to be brought here at the completion of the plant.

Now fellow-citizen, you know that had the company said it would build an addition at a cost of three million dollars and employ fifteen hundred men, provided you and other citizens would put up a bonus of a hundred thousand dollars, you, one and all, would have hastened to open your purses and subscribe the hundred thousand dollars.

But the company did not ask that, it didn't ask a cent for itself, all it required was an investment, a promise that its workmen could be held here by the provision of suitable roofs to cover them and their families, an investment by the community that would bring great fortune to it incidentally and a fair return for its investment. That was BEFORE.

Now comes the AFTER. The keeping of the honor and the good name of Portsmouth. Honestly we feel ashamed to debate the matter. It's so violently a simple question of community good faith.

For the fair fame we would have the town hold before the world we must keep our pledge. More than that we must keep it for our own self respect, for our own fortune. Otherwise we destroy confidence in ourselves and lose heart for future achievement.

DAUGHERTY'S SON'S NAME MENTIONED IN MYSTERY: ATTEMPT TO BLACKMAIL HIM

Try To Refute Testimony

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., March 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Further testimony to refute the charges of fraud and immorality brought against the Israelite House of David by John W. Hunsell, a former member, who seeks a financial settlement in the sum of $80,000, was offered in federal court here today. Up to today the defense had called a dozen witnesses each upholding their "faith" as followers of Benjamin Parnell, and some attempting to discredit the charges by terming the case an attempt at blackmail by disgruntled ex-members. One witness declared the suit was the outgrowth of a "hooded band meeting at Detroit" at which he declared, a plot was laid to gain possession of the cult's property, and set up a new colony, of which Hunsell was to be the head, at Nashville, Tenn.

Saunders Plans Suit

MEMPHIS, TENN., March 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Clarence Saunders, president of Piggly-Wiggly Stores Inc., whose stock has been the center of a New York Stock Exchange sensation since its fluctuations last Tuesday, terminated in catching short sellers for approximately what he claims 25,000 shares, today was engaged in checking on the time the shares delivered in settlement were acquired by brokers making the deliveries.

No time has been announced by Mr. Saunders as to when he shall begin court action to suits which he proposes to bring against "exchange brokers who was at default" and against the New York Stock Exchange.

Mr. Saunders declined to comment on the statement of the exchange as reported in Associated Press dispatches from New York last night. "One of the allegations of my suit will be that I was not delivered the stock which was due me as I claim that no stock purchased after March 20 was a good and valid delivery of stock against my purchases prior to that time, and in addition thereto, I will sue the New York Stock Exchange for conspiracy," he said in a statement. He declared, "the fight has just begun."

New York Governor Replies To Fess

ALBANY, N. Y., March 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Governor Smith today made public a letter replying to United States Senator Fess, Republican, Ohio, who recently took exception to the action of the New York legislature in memorializing congress for modification of the Volstead act.

"We ask for a reasonable congressional interpretation of what constitutes an 'intoxicating beverage,'" was the keynote of the governor's letter, which declared that New York state was not asking laxity in enforcement of the prohibition law.

"We have had illegal traffic in liquors and official corruption," said the governor's letter. "The latter is clearly proved by the brevity of the official life of many that represent the government in the enforcement of the Volstead act and the summary of removal or transfer from this district is usually under the shadow of suspicion. The moving pictures depicting the weekly news, show a fleet of rum boats lying outside of the three mile limit. The smuggling of whiskey across the Canadian border, has become a notorious abuse."

"People who for years were used to a harmless glass of beer, have been put upon a whiskey diet."

"I am impressed by the figures that you give of the vote in your own state on 2.75 per cent beer, as well as the vote of Michigan and California. Why not settle the question for all time and provide for that vote in every state with congress fixing 2.75 per cent as a maximum alcoholic content and allowing the popular vote to fix the minimum? That, surely, is Democratic government."

"It is the voice of the people themselves and if that is not the essence of Democracy then we had better turn the key in the door and go out of business."

Probing Into Mystery Slaying Of New York Model

ST. JOSEPH, MICH., March 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Cross-examination of Charles E. Rutherford, of Cleveland, Ohio, testifying in defense of William Z. Foster, of Chicago, on trial charged with violation of the Michigan anti-syndicalism law, was incomplete today, and prospects were that it and his re-direct examination would require his presence on the witness stand all day.

The state yesterday on cross-examination tried to get an admission from Rutherford that the communist party of America is dedicated to violent overthrow of the government. Two and one-half hours of questioning drew only testimony that the witness did not know that the alleged communist program offered in evidence really was a party program.

Draper Daugherty Defied Blackmailers

NEW YORK, March 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Detective Inspector Coughlin, in charge of the investigation of the murder of Dorothy Keenan, model, today sought further light on a story published by a morning newspaper to the effect that Draper M. Daugherty, only son of Attorney General Daugherty, was a close acquaintance of the slain girl, and might be able to put him on the trail of blackmailers thought to have used her as a pawn.

It was pointed out that Daugherty, if he is, as reported, at Atlantic City, could not be compelled to come here to tell his story but the inspector declared he would be "glad to listen to" Daugherty's story. Daugherty, who served for two years with the British army before America entered the war and then became a major in the American expeditionary forces was quoted by the newspaper as saying that he knew Miss Keenan well, had visited her apartment several times, and on one occasion had given her a check to pay a bill she told him was pressing.

He began to suspect last Thursday, after receiving a telephone call at a New York club, that he, like the mysterious "Mr. Marshall," identified Saturday as John Kearsley Mitchell, wealthy and socially prominent Philadelphian, was marked for a plucking by blackmailers, he was quoted as saying.

This call, he said, came from a man who had been close to Miss Keenan. The speaker, he said, asked him how about the job he had promised to get for him in the United States department of justice which Attorney General Daugherty, his father, controlled.

Admitting he earlier promised this man to see what could be done for him, Daugherty was quoted as saying he told the caller he had spoken to a Mr. "X" at Washington in his behalf. The caller, he said, told him nothing had developed and added that Mr. Daugherty had to get the job for him, inquiring menacingly if he wanted his acquaintance with Miss Keenan to come out.

Daugherty was quoted as inviting the caller to come up and take a thrashing. The man called again on Saturday, he was quoted as saying, asking again about the job in a more conciliatory tone, but getting the same response from him.

Daugherty declared he had no fear that blackmailers could foster anything discreditable upon him, as his relations with the slain model had been most casual. He added that his only regret, he said, was that his father's name should have been drawn into the Keenan case, particularly in view of the fact that both his father and his mother are ill.

Daugherty was said to have been acquainted with both Miss Keenan's brothers, John and Frank, and to have employed one of them for a time in his automobile insurance business here. He laughed at reports that his appeal to Miss Keenan had been so strong that he had supplanted both Mr. Mitchell and Alfred Guimares, her younger admirer, in her affections.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(By the United Press)—The first meeting of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Mitchell since his identity as Mr. Marshall in the King murder case, occurred in the private car of E. T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia millionaire at the Union Station here today. Elaborate preparations were made to keep newspaper men and photographers away from his private car attached to a fast train of the Atlantic Coast Line.

Mitchell boarded the train a few minutes after it arrived. Preparations immediately were made to transfer the car to a north bound train indicating the party planned to leave shortly for Baltimore and Philadelphia. Big burly detectives were at all entrances to the private car.

Two Theories On Murder

NEW YORK, March 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Two theories formed the background of today's public investigation of the murder of Dorothy Keenan.

The first was that a man intent on blackmail, chloroformed Miss Keenan to obtain an endearing letter written to her from Palm Beach by John Kearsley Mitchell, the prominent Philadelphian who was known until Saturday as "John Marshall, of Boston."

The second was that a robber entered her fifty-seventh street apartment and chloroformed her to get her jewels and furs and escaped with the loot, ignorant that he had murdered the woman.

Frederick E. Goldsmith, attorney for Albert E. Guimares, "the man in the fur coat," challenged the authorities to connect his client with either the murder or the supposed blackmailing scheme.

Gasoline Excise Tax Bill Up Before The House

COLUMBUS, O., March 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The gasoline excise tax bill by Representative Brown, Republican, of Champaign county, was to undergo another effort to pass it in the house of representatives today.

In an effort to save the proposed two cent tax, Mr. Brown has prepared an amendment which he will offer, providing for a reduction of fifty per cent in the present automobile license as applied to pleasure cars.

This proposed reduction in the license fees, while not as much as contemplated by the amendment proposed last week by Representative Knapp, Republican, of Medina county, fixing a flat rate of $5.00 for each pleasure car, will, Mr. Brown believes, appease many of the opponents of the two cent tax.

Under the proposed Brown amendment, the license fees amounting to about $4,000,000 a year would go to the highways department in its entirety for road repair, cities and local subdivisions getting no money from this source against $4,000,000 under the present license fee.

The two cent gasoline tax contemplated to raise $6,000,000 all would go to the cities and counties, making these subdivisions the gainer by approximately $2,000,000 over the amount now received from automobiles. The cent gasoline tax with the proposed fifty per cent reduction in license fees thus would yield approximately $2,000,000 more than now is yielded by the license tax.

Should the Brown amendment fail, it is expected that an effort will be made to obtain approval of the Knapp amendment. It is believed to

Body Run Thru Fertilizer Machinery, Charged

DETROIT, MICH., March 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Acting on the theory that Joseph A. Campbell, superintendent of a reduction company, who disappeared February 10, was slain and his body destroyed by running it through machinery used in the manufacture of fertilizer, county authorities today detained George Reynolds, night fireman at the plant. Investigation is said to have disclosed that the grinding machinery in the plant was in operation from 11:00 p. m. until 5:00 a. m., on the night of February 10, contrary to custom. It is declared Campbell and Reynolds were alone in the plant that night and that no evidence can be found that the superintendent ever left the place.

Deputy Sheriff Frank C. Longman, investigating the case, expressed the belief Campbell was slain because he possessed information in regard to machinery that had been stolen from the plant.

Disbarment Of Hawke Affirmed By High Court

COLUMBUS, O., March 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The disbarment of George S. Hawke, Cincinnati attorney, was affirmed by the supreme court today. The case was carried to the higher court by Mr. Hawke.

Mr. Hawke still has pending in the supreme court a suit in mandamus to compel the Hamilton county judges to reinstate him.

The court decided two cases involving Hawke's disbarment today and in both instances held against him. In one he sought to have a decision of the court of appeals reviewed. The appellate court had decided that it had no jurisdiction to consider an appeal in disbarment action entered in the common pleas court. In the other case, Hawke sought to obtain an injunction against the common pleas court to prevent it carrying out its disbarment order.

Attorney Hawke was disbarred by the Hamilton county common pleas court because of alleged unprofessional conduct.

Massillon's Ousted Mayor Filed Suit To Get Back

COLUMBUS, O., Mar. 27.—Herbert H. Vogt, whom Governor Donahy removed as Mayor of Massillon today brought suit in the state supreme court to oust Mayor M. P. L. Kirchoff from the position and to have himself reinstated as Massillon's chief executive.

This is the second suit Vogt has brought in the supreme court in an effort to gain reinstatement. March 17, he filed a petition in mandamus asking the court to compel Governor Donahy to re-instate him.

Both petitions raise practically the same points, that his removal was unwarranted by the evidence, that he had been denied a full public hearing and that sections of law under which Governor Donahy acted in removing him are unconstitutional. While today's action was directed against Kirchoff, President of the Council who automatically became mayor on Vogt's removal, the first was directed against Governor Donahy.

Quo Warrants Proceeding.
The petition in quo warrants alleges that Kirchoff is holding the office illegally and asks the court to compel him to show cause why he should not be made to yield the office to Vogt.

It is expected that both petitions will be heard by the court at the same time inasmuch as both actions seek to accomplish the same end—reinstatement of Vogt.

The ouster action is said to have been instituted by Vogt's attorneys as there appeared to be some doubt as to the method of procedure—whether by mandamus against the Governor or by ouster against Kirchoff. By bringing the action both ways, they were certain not to be thrown out of court on technicalities.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to cure it, and get the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families, the world over, feel that they can't hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosen a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for the throat and chest. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. after an unexampled period of prosperity, would seem to be an exception to the political rule, but Mr. Harding does not think so. He has often discussed the 1920 contest with his friends and he has said that if nothing else had crept into the campaign apart from the prosperity issue the result might have been different. He thinks the accumulated grievances, growing out of the war and the issues of reconstruction were big enough to submerge the question of prosperity in 1920. "We want a change" of personnel was the outcry then.

What the president means, therefore, is that ordinarily when there are no extraneous issues, the dominant thought of the country is more likely to be economic than anything else. In other words, he looks for an old fashioned campaign, the sort that is reminiscent of the "sound money" slogan of 1896 or the cry of the "full dinner pail" of 1900 and 1901 and the warning "against rainy days" which the electorate was urged to take heart in 1908.

This Line of Reasoning Impresses The President

Mr. Harding is all the more impressed by this line of reasoning because of the universal enthusiasm with which the people generally seemed to greet the promised program of a return to "normalcy" which at the outset he gave as the object of his administration. This would make the 1923 issue something like this:

"Has the country returned to normalecy and if not has it progressed sufficiently along the road to warrant a change or a continuance of the same leader?"

The Democrats would take up the challenge, naturally by pointing to the higher level of wages in the years of the Wilson administration as compared to the incomes of the workers in the last three years. To offset this, the Harding administration would attempt to prove that there had been a drop in the cost of living.

Both Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin and Senator Ladd of North Dakota have already begun on economic questions, the one charging that the price of gasoline will rise through illegal combination of the producers and the other contending that the price of sugar is soaring unnecessarily. Secretary Hoover is alive to the dangers of excessive oil and sugar prices and Attorney General Daugherty is keeping a watchful eye on the probable prices of coal under the arrangements to be in effect next year between miners and operators.

It looks truly as if the high cost of living which played such a prominent part in sweeping the Democrats into power in the house of representatives in the middle of the Taft administration and which helped considerably in putting the Democratic party in power in the White House as well as both branches of congress in 1912 will be in the foreground once more in 1924. The Republican orators will exhort the people to "sit steady in the boat and don't rock it" while the Democrats will endeavor to tempt the electorate by detailed reminiscence of "the good old days of 1915 and 1919 under Democratic rule."

Life Of Sarah Bernhardt Wonderful Drama On And Off The Stage

PARIS, March 27.—(By the Associated Press)—All France mourns today for her well-beloved daughter, Sarah Bernhardt, who died.

Paris is stunned, scarcely believing that she who was regarded as almost immortal, in more than one sense of the word, has passed away. It seems too much to say that not since the death of Victor Hugo has France been so deeply shocked.

As the Académie Française observes in its eulogy, Bernhardt probably shares with Hugo and Pasteur the distinction of being the most illustrious person in the last hundred years of French history.

Graced of French Artists "Divine Sarah" was undoubtedly one of the greatest ambassadors of French art and literature, who, ever lived.

It was thus befitting that the public which idolized her and which she in turn held so close to her heart, should have lingered reverently in the soft spring night outside the house in the Boulevard Pereire, where she lived for 38 years, sharing the vigil with the family within. After midnight when the theatres were closed, came the people of the stage to pay tribute to their illustrious comrade. Among them were Sacha Guitry, the playwright, who had a filial respect for Bernhardt; Cecile Sorel, Rachel Boyer and a host of other stars. Included in the number also was James Hackett, who according to L'Eclair, called President Harding requesting him to announce officially to the people of the United States the death of "The greatest artist in the world."

Bernhardt lies on her bed covered by the flowers she loved so well. Bernhardt occasionally expressed the desire to be buried within the grounds of her house at Belle Isle, a romantic spot atop storm-torn cliffs that overlook the Atlantic. However, it has not yet been decided whether she will be laid to rest there or in the family tomb in Pere la Chaise cemetery, Paris.

Body To Lie In State In any event there will be an impressive ceremony in Paris, on either Thursday or Friday and there is a strong sentiment in favor of holding this at the expense of the nation. As an officer of the Legion of Honor, "Madame Bernhardt" is entitled to burial with military honors, but the public feels that she should be interred with the pomp befitting her incalculable services to French art.

It has been arranged that the body should lie in state at the home beginning at 2:00 o'clock this afternoon.

The funeral probably will be held at the Church of St. Francois de Sales, but inasmuch as this is "the week of the dead" preceding Easter, there can be no high mass.

The suggestion of Madame Bernhardt's friends that she be given a state funeral, was not taken up by the government at today's cabinet meeting. It was explained there was no precedent for such a ceremony for any except noted public governmental personages.

PARIS, Mar. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—Sarah Bernhardt died peacefully in the arms of her son, Maurice, at one minute before eight o'clock last night. In life she had an amazing power of emotion, of unworldly realism and pathos in her acting of death scenes. At the end of her days she quietly drifted away into eternity, tired after her long fight against death, which she did not wish, but never feared.

Hope for the life of the great actress had long since been abandoned, and half an hour before she passed away, those in attendance found her sinking beyond recovery, though knowing her recuperative powers, it was thought she might live throughout the night.

Open Windows Proclaim the End. Mme. Bernhardt died in a large room on the second floor of her home with windows wide open on the Boulevard Pereire, the noise of trucks and the railroad keeping up a low roar to which she was long accustomed. It was the sudden closing of these windows, opened on the finest day of spring, that gave the signal to those waiting and watching without that Bernhardt was dead.

Death was due to a renewed attack of uremic poisoning, which began Friday, but the actress, astonished by her physicians by her repeated rallies and her will to live, just as she did last December, when hope had several times been abandoned. A priest was summoned hurriedly in the middle of the afternoon when symptoms of the gravest nature supervened, but Bernhardt rallied and regained lucidity. The priest administered extreme unction which she acknowledged with faint movements of the hand and head, too weak to speak.

Many Floral Tributes. The widow of Edmond Rostand, whose name is linked with that of Bernhardt and the poet's son, Maurice Rostand, were at the bedside. Bernhardt's grandnephew, M. Grosjean, brought the first flowers into the death chamber—mauve and white.

Frequent Coughs. Many do not realize the significance of the all too frequent cold of cough. Care should be taken to build up the powers of resistance.

of her career this form of acting, based principally on love, hate and jealousy, held the predominant place now dedicated to character delineations, and Bernhardt never was surpassed, her critics say, in this emotional school. Hundreds of parts she either rewrote or created to suit her own, seldom being content to act them as interpreted by others.

Heroine of Three Generations. Three generations have praised and even worshipped the art of Bernhardt, and hundreds upon thousands of people around the world have thronged to see and marvel at her acting without understanding the French language, which she invariably employed upon the stage. Once, in Rio de Janeiro, she was called before the curtain more than 200 times by a wildly enthusiastic audience, and many times, in other parts of the world, she was obliged to answer scores of curtain calls at a single performance.

The long life-story of Bernhardt is almost legendary. Closely woven with dramatic incident, off as well as on the stage, it was set down by herself in a lengthy volume published many years ago, and as one of her critics has said, "through the pages of the book peers the face of a woman, a little tired, weary of her own reputation, and blessed with more than her share of the vanities of the sex."

As she and others have told the story, it is summed up here: The date of her birth, the record of which was destroyed in the flames of the Commune in Paris, was commonly accepted as October 22, 1845. Her mother was Dutch and Jewish, and her maternal father a French official.

Histrionic Traits in Child. As a child Bernhardt spent much of her time with relatives in Paris, and at the age of 12 was sent to the Grand Chateau, Versailles, where she made her debut in a little miracle play given by the children. Even at this early age the public and society child he said to have displayed the fits of temper which were characteristic of her stage career.

After a year or two at the convent, she conceived a passionate desire to become a nun. To this her mother recorded unqualified opposition, and suggested a theatrical career instead. "She's too thin to be an actress," said her god-father, "let her be a nun."

"I won't be an actress," little Sarah categorically exclaimed. "Rachel is an actress. She came to the convent and walked around the garden, then she had to sit down because she couldn't get her breath. They fetched her something to bring her around, but she was so pale, so pale. I was very sorry for her, and the nuns told me that when she was doing was killing her, for she was an actress, and so I won't be a nun."

Actors Fund Aids Sarah. But fate had determined otherwise, and at the age of 14 Bernhardt was sent to a conservatory. At the end of the first year she won second prize for tragedy. A subscription among the players at the Comedie Francaise enabled her to spend another year, at the conservatory, and upon the completion of this she carried off second prize for comedy. Her first public appearance was at the Comedie Francaise in August, 1862. She took a minor part without any marked success.

Five years later she emerged from laborious obscurity with her first definite success as Cordelia in a French translation of "King Lear," at the Odéon, then as Queen in Victor Hugo's "Ruy Blas," and above all as Zerkine in Francois Coppee's "Le Passant," which she played in 1869.

Becomes A War Nurse. Then came the Franco-Prussian war. Bernhardt increased her popularity by becoming a war nurse. In 1871 she was made a life member of the Comedie Francaise. She clashed repeatedly with M. Perrin, the manager, over the roles she should take, and once in a fit of pique fled from the theatre and decided to give up the stage. She plunged into sculpture. Her first piece, "After the Storm," finished some years later—won a place in the Salon. She returned to M. Perrin only to break with him again, incurring a forfeit of 4,000 francs, which she paid.

She invaded England, receiving a tremendous ovation, then toured Denmark and Russia. Next she came to America, where her success was instantaneous. She toured the United States and Canada eight times in some 35 years, and appeared several times in the larger cities of South America.

Breaking with the theatrical syndicates, which denied her the use of their theatres when she refused to come to their terms, she was compelled to appear on one of her American tours in tents, convention halls and armories. She vowed never to appear in a theatre again, but on subsequent visits she came to terms with the syndicates.

Right Leg Amputated. The great actress was a grandmother when she last appeared in America, and had suffered amputation of her right leg. Upon her arrival in New York, October, 1916, it was evident to the group of friends and admirers who gathered to welcome her that she walked with extreme difficulty.

While playing in New England she contracted a severe cold which prompted her to take a trip South for her health. A few weeks later she underwent an operation for infection of the kidney, and although more than 70 years of age, she enjoyed complete recovery and remained in America for several months.

The injury to her knee which complicated the amputation of her leg in 1915 was attributed to many different causes. For years before the amputation the plays in which she appeared were altered to hide the fact that she was able to walk only with great difficulty. The operation was performed in Paris, and upon her recovery she reappeared on the stage to receive the greatest ovation of her career. Her manager announced that Bernhardt she would interpret only motionless roles.

The Incomparable Event. During the World War Bernhardt made several trips to the French front and gave a number of performances for the soldiers. This, she declared, was the "incomparable event" of her life.

The memories of Bernhardt so dominantly avoid any mention of her material experience, and only in the middle of the bulky volume does she

Big Gain Is Made By Mrs. J. Salyer

Declares Tania Had Long Suffered From Indigestion and Built Her Up Wonderfully.

"Since taking the Tania treatment, my digestion is amazing, my appetite is the envy of the family, and I have actually gained forty-six pounds," was the remarkable statement made the other day by Mrs. James Salyer, 3430 S. Third St., Ironton, Ohio.

"I was in wretched health for ever three years. I had no appetite and even the little I did eat soured gas bloated me terribly, and my heart fluttered and palpitated so that I was afraid I had heart trouble. I was weak and listless, unfit for any task, and could get no restful sleep.

"But now, thanks to Tania, I could not wish for better health. When I got rid of stomach trouble I also got rid of what I thought was heart trouble, for since my indigestion stopped I have had no more of those dreadful spells of palpitation. My daughter and my brother also have been greatly benefited by Tania, and it has been the favorite medicine in our family for several years. I cannot praise it too highly.

mention casually the existence of a son. One of her critics declared that "she never seemed to find the man who could master her."

"There was in her," he continued, "the making of a super-woman, and although she met Victor Hugo and the greatest intellectual potentates of her time, the super-woman, who alone could hold her, never entered her life."

Years ago a jealous rival of her theatrical career published a satire entitled "The Story of Sarah Bernhardt," in which the love-affairs of the actress, real and alleged, were shamelessly laid bare. Bernhardt resorted to the horse-whip to punish the author.

In 1882 the actress was married to Jacques Damala, a handsome Greek who had made a name in the theatrical world through his work in "The Ironmaster." He later took a minor part in one of her plays, but after a year on tour they separated. Later she took him back to her home and nursed him through a fatal siege of consumption.

Son Weds Russian Princess. Mme. Bernhardt's natural son, Maurice, showed no inclination to follow the profession of his mother, and after spending a short time in the French army, he married a Russian princess. She died after bearing him a daughter, and Maurice Bernhardt took a Parisienne as his second wife.

Many stories have been told of the fabulous sums according to the famous actress, especially in America, but authenticated figures show that the gross receipts of each tour were in the neighborhood of $500,000, of which she usually received fifty percent. A large part of her earnings was reinvested in theatrical enterprises, and at one time she owned or controlled half a dozen playhouses in Paris.

Played In Many Roles. Of the more than 200 parts Bernhardt played during her long stage career, perhaps the boldest experiment of all was the title role in a French production of Hamlet, which met with such unmistakable success that she was prompted to appear again as a man in "L'Esprit."

Her repertoire, in addition to the plays mentioned, included "Joan of Arc," "L'Esprit," "Le Coeur," "Sappho," "Theodora," and "Hernani." Her greatest successes, however, seemed to center in the Hugo and Sardou dramas, both tragedies and comedies. Many of these plays were written around her, and "fitted like a glove."

Actress Suffered Intensely. Bernhardt was the most famous, for her death scenes, but it is doubtful if her breathless, spellbound perhaps, audiences ever knew that many of them were played while the actress was suffering almost unbearable agonies from her various physical ailments, of which she never was heard to complain.

Patience seemed to have been one of Bernhardt's inborn characteristics. She would spend weeks and even months trying to correct technical faults in some member of her company, and then, if the subject failed to improve, she would explode and have nothing more to do with him either on or off the stage—not even speaking to him under any circumstances.

She always displayed a keen interest in the heart affairs of her troupe, and delighted in holding a "cupid's court," in her private car, at which she would require aggrieved swains and the objects of their affections to submit their differences to Bernhardt to be the final arbiter.

Gambler, But Poor Loser. Another of her pastimes was gambling, although she was a poor loser. She remained jovial and vivacious as long as the game was running in her favor, but the moment her luck changed she became sullen and sarcastic. Her opponents, once they had lost to her knew that it was gone for good, for she would throw down her cards and leave the game at the first sign of reverse.

A love for strange pets was another of Bernhardt's peculiarities. When she was a little girl she saved her money and bought a goat. She learned to love the animal so much that she wanted to become a goat-herd, and cried when her mother ridiculed the idea. During the Franco-Prussian war she raised geese for the soldiers, but grew to care so much for them that she refused to have them killed. Once in London she bought a lion-cub, a tiger and two chimpanzees at an auction sale. Another time she bought a baby elephant, but it grew itself out of a dwarf. She tried for years to find a tame elephant, but never succeeded.

Liked Midnight Dinners. The conviviality of the dancer made another of Bernhardt's delights. She particularly enjoyed a feast at midnight, after a performance, when the members of her company were present. She drank in moderation, and seldom touched anything but champagne. She never was known to smoke.

Two of the treasures in her Paris home invariably excited the interest of visitors. One was the skull given her by Victor Hugo, on which he had written autograph verse to the actress, and the other was the coffin in which she occasionally slept. This strange bed, she explained, was padded with "memories of her dead life"—faded rose leaves and letters yellow with age.

Planned Magnificent Tomb. She once expressed a wish that this coffin be her final resting place, and in 1922 the idea was elaborated upon when she bought for $100 from the French government a little granite island in the Bay of Biscay, not far from her summer home at Belle Ile, where she planned to build a magnificent tomb crowned with a marble statue of herself, the arms outstretched as if beckoning to harrassed fishermen imperiled by the storms.

Death had a weird fascination for Bernhardt, and for years she contemplated it with what appeared to be an uncanny humor. The wish she most expressed was that she might die in the midst of her triumphs. "I shall play until death," she said, "and the death I hope for is the death Sir Henry Irving died." Her English contemporary died on tour, being stricken with apoplexy after a performance in 1905.

Toward the end of 1922, it was thought his desire might shorten her life considerably, for while she was dangerously ill in her Paris home, she spent her iron will against the physicians and prepared to resume her part in a new play by Sacha Guitry that she was playing in when stricken. She felt the end was near, her sick-room attendants said, and wanted to be acting a leading role when death rang down the curtain.

Applauded Tirade. YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The death of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has recalled to theatre-goers here an incident which occurred when the great actress played in a Youngstown theater, 20 years ago. Angered by something in the attitude of the audience—the cause never has been explained—Mme. Bernhardt burst into a tirade against her hearers. As she spoke in French, of course, the audience thought it was part of the play, and at the conclusion of her outburst, the house broke into a storm of applause.

Visit Sciotoville K. of P.'s. One of the most interesting meetings in months was held last night by the Sciotoville Knights of Pythias when delegations from Magnolia Lodge and the D. O. K. K. were guests. The D. O. K. K. committee included H. Wells Elliott, O. I. Coriell, Arthur Flowers, L. E. Yeager and John Kahl, who are boosting the D. O. K. K. ceremonial to be held May 12.

After the meeting there were several indoor horseshoe pitching contests that caused no end of fun and later supper was served.

Story Delves Back Into The Mists That Obscure Early Life Of Bernhardt

McALESTER, OKLA., March 27.—A story that delves back into the mists that obscure the early life of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, who has mended McAlister's stores and furnaces for the last quarter century.

Joseph Bernhardt says the famous actress was his half-sister. They were estranged many years ago—he tells it—and, rottering about his little shop today, he vowed he felt no sorrow at the news of the passing of the "Divine Sarah."

The Bernharts are a strong tempered people, says old Joseph, and he declared he cannot forgive Sarah for her treatment of him as a youth when she could have extended to him a helping hand, but refused.

Joseph Bernhardt told the story of his blood relationship to the famous actress when he came to McAlister 25 years ago and it has stood unrefuted. Sarah Bernhardt was the second daughter of Pierre Bernhardt, born of his first wife, according to Joseph. He gives the history of the Bernhardt family as follows:

"The father, Pierre Bernhardt, was of Swiss descent. There were two daughters, Jeanne and Sarah, born of his first wife, and Rachel and myself born of his second wife. Rachel was two years older than I, and Sarah was 13 years older than myself. Jeanne was two years older than Sarah.

"Being the oldest it devolved upon Jeanne when mother died to mother the family. She was kind and good to me but Sarah, even when I was little, mistreated me. She used to drink up half my milk and fill the bottle with water.

"I was with the Catholic sisters in Paris for a long time after my mother died. Then I came back and lived with the girls until I was taken to live with my grandmother in Germany.

"Both Pierre Bernhardt's wives were of German descent. All the Bernharts were born in Paris except Sarah. She was born while her mother and father were on a visit to Germany. I was told that they made every effort to reach French soil before Sarah's birth."

At six Bernhardt says he entered a show, doubling as a boy and a girl. Within a year he was brought to America.

"It was in Wheeling, W. Va., that Sarah and I had our big fight. It came near being more than a fight with words. Sarah was just as high tempered as I am.

"Sarah received no in her rooms and I told her I thought it was as little as she could do to send me to school for a year or two. I was in the show business then. I told her that I had not had a chance and that I at least wanted a business course. The way Sarah snapped me off made me angry and I told her in words, perhaps too harsh, that I hoped I would never lay my eyes upon her again.

"We parted in anger and have never had a conversation since that day. I have seen her several times since, but we were both too stubborn to give in and have been strangers since. Another thing—that turned me against Sarah, I asked her about father awhile she seemed afraid that I was going to hunt him up and report how she had treated me. She refused to give any information about the family.

"A few years ago Sarah sent one of her company here to make overtures but I told him if anything was done Sarah would have to make her own overtures."

Appeared In Cleveland Last. CLEVELAND, O., Mar. 26.—Sarah Bernhardt's last appearance on an American stage is believed to have been at B. F. Keith's Hippodrome here. She had completed her tour in 1918 when the Keith Circuit made special arrangements for her appearance here during the fourth literary campaign, during the World War.

Madame Bernhardt during the week of October 7, 1918 appeared in a play called "Arriere Les Huns" which was written by Iere Germain, a member of her company. It is said to be the only time the play has been produced.

In this play Madame Bernhardt took the part of a French countess who refused to leave her chateau during the German invasion and gave shelter to wounded French and American soldiers.

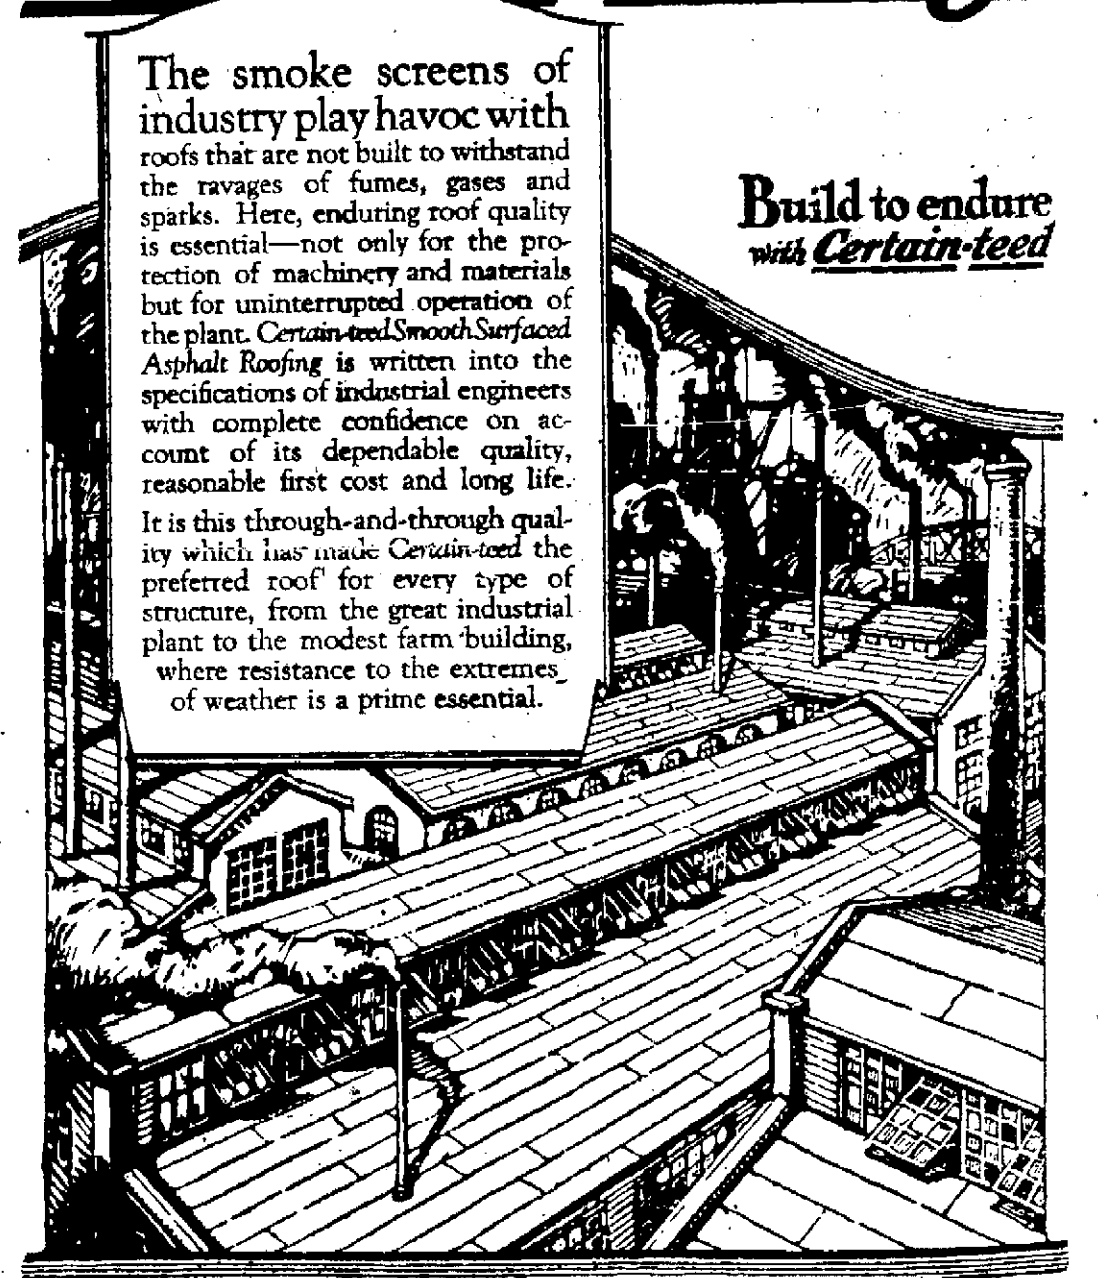

She sailed ten days later and never returned to America.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—I am a girl of 18 and going with a real pretty man of 21. He wants to marry me but I don't want to wait until I have had a chance to "step out" as yet. I come to see you on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday nights. Do you think that is enough? My girl friends think I should come to see you every night. I think that is too often, don't you? Dolly, advise me what to do as I am a poor girl.

BLUE EYES.
I think two nights is often enough unless you go to some place of amusement in the meantime. If you work, I don't see how you can find the time to entertain company every night in the week. Don't you have any "little things" to do for yourself of evenings, such as sewing, darning, mending, etc.? Then you need time to read the daily papers and the latest magazines, to say nothing of a few good books. Perhaps you are like the man who telephoned me the other day and wanted to know who was governor of Ohio—you are not "up" on politics or current events. Speaking of marriage, I would advise you to wait at least a year or two.

Dear Dolly—I want your advice: I am 24 years of age and alone in the world. Dolly, people have told stories on me, and have done various other things for spite. I have no home and no work for my living. Dolly I have been going with a man for seven years, and I try to treat everybody right and don't do nothing to nobody. The man I am going with does not treat me right. We fall out all the time and then he always coaxes me to take him back and I give in, and then we fall out all over again. This has been going on for years and I am getting tired of it. Dolly, I think I will go away where I will be safe. I will go to hear tell of him again. This town is not the only one on the map and I think I could be happy in other places as well as here. I want to be good if I can and I want to be independent and not let anyone run over me. I think I will go around with girls, as you can't tell when a boy is telling you the truth. They are all such big fishers. Dolly please tell me what is best to do?
WORRIED GIRL.
If you can get your love affair straightened out I think you will be all right. I believe it would do you both good to quit for awhile, and if you are in a position to go away for a few weeks, or months, you should do so. Since you have no home, you could get a job in some other city for a month or two, and don't have anything to do with this man while you are gone. I would not even write to him. Then both of you will have time to think the matter over, and decide whether or not you can live without each other. If you can't live without each other, get married. If you decide otherwise, get going together for good. Seven years is too long for any couple to go together without a definite decision one way or the other.

Dear Dolly—I have a line suit and the lining is wearing out. What do you think would be nice to line it with? It is also quite soiled. Would you have it cleaned before it was lined or afterwards? I have light hair and blue eyes. do you think I could wear green all right? Dolly please give me a recipe for butterscotch pie.
I. O. V.

You could line your coat with grey or blue crepe de chene, satin or flowered silk. If you will inquire at the silk counter in one of the local stores they will show you what they sell for crepe and silk linings. I believe it would be better to have it cleaned first, and then re-lined, but either way would be all right. You can wear green all right, and since it is one of the popular shades this spring, you might as well step out in a new green Easter bonnet. Here is your butterscotch pie: Two eggs, one cup milk, one cup of brown sugar, lump of butter the size of a walnut, one level tablespoon of flour, a few grains of salt. Save whites of eggs for meringue, which is made as follows: Beat whites of eggs dry with a wire beater, and gradually two tablespoons of powdered sugar, beat out a vote on the proposition.

and throw in lightly two more tablespoons of sugar. Put this on top of pie and slightly brown in oven.

TIMES READER.—I think I told you or another bunch of girls that the man you inquired about is married, and has three children. You can't help but know this, so why go crazy about him?

ROBBIE.—The man you mentioned may be very popular in his own set, but he can't be the most popular person in Portsmouth, because I never heard of him until you mentioned his name. I don't think any one man could claim that title anyway, with-out a vote on the proposition.

As it is, they are permitted to remain in their homes and infect every other member of the family, and also mingle with the public, and there is no way of telling how many innocent men, women and children acquire the disease in this manner.

Municipal Judge Stanley McCall was the next speaker, and his talk was along the same lines as that of Dr. Wendelken. Judge McCall deplored the fact that there was only one female ward at the city prison and one at the county jail. There are only two cots in each cell, and consequently if more than two women are confined there at the same time, one of them will have to sit in a chair all night. Another drawback to the one ward is that delinquent girls, who perhaps have been arrested on some minor offense, or detained in the prison over night, are compelled to stay in the same ward with the hard-boiled offenders.

Judge McCall said that for the past three years there has been a law on the statute books whereby the trial judge may order a physical examination of every prisoner brought before him, and if found to be suffering with a venereal disease the prisoner may be isolated until cured, but this law has not been put in force in this city, because there is no place to confine the prisoners for treatment. He also urged the establishment of a detention home, where cases of this kind might be quarantined until given the proper treatment.

Miss Emma Hubert, welfare worker for the Bureau of Community Service gave some startling facts in regard to juvenile delinquency in the city of Portsmouth. Miss Hubert said that when she first started to work for the Bureau of Community Service the average age of delinquent boys and girls was 16 and 17 years of age, but now the age has dropped to 13 and 14 and she told of shocking conditions in families of children 11 and 12 years of age. She spoke of one girl fifteen years of age being confined in the ward at the city jail over night with two immoral women, who had been arrested on a statutory charge, and the things these women told this young girl were unmentionable. This is another instance of the need of a detention home for delinquent women and girls. Miss Hubert stated that while the girl in question was incorrigible, she was perfectly innocent in regard to the sordid life led by the women with whom she was forced to spend the night in prison.

Miss Mildred Fisher, the new director for the girls department at the Bureau of Community Service told of her particular work with girls in Girl Scout work. She stated that there are now 394 tenderfoot scouts, and four second class scouts in the five troops in the elementary schools and the four troops in the high schools, all of whom are showing great interest in sewing, cooking, out door craft, home making, etc., and other requirements necessary.

She said the girls were looking forward to a pleasant summer and the re-establishment of their camp on Brush Creek. While the camp is inadequate to meet the demands of this growing organization, she hoped that enough funds would be available to repair the cottage on the three acres of ground and make it ready to meet the needs of the Girl Scouts during the summer months.

The committee in charge of the splendid program arranged for the afternoon included Mrs. Edgar D. Poffenberger, Mrs. C. L. Ferguson, Mrs. J. D. Jordan and Mrs. Winifred Bennett.

Harry Merion, fruit and vegetable salesman, of 411 East Mound Street, Columbus, in relating his experience with Ka-di-ok, says: "I have been seriously handicapped in my work the past two years with a severe case of rheumatism; attacks of indigestion and bloating pains were almost a daily occurrence with me. I had to shun all kinds of fruits, as the acid always upset me; likewise all fried foods, even the simplest and plainest diet disagreed with me. No person in the world can hold up and make any kind of showing under these adverse conditions and I felt myself slipping and almost ready to quit. Just a few weeks ago, however, I was advised by a friend to try Ka-di-ok, which I purchased at Herpich's drug store, and have been taking it every day up to the present time. This Ka-di-ok has absolutely banished my stomach trouble and for the past week or two I have forgotten all about dieting and eat anything that appeals to me without any distress after it. My rheumatism has passed away and I am today in better physical condition than I have been in years. I have strength and confidence in myself to go after business, and enjoy my work now. Ka-di-ok is a splendid stomach remedy; it is a class by itself."

Adventures Of The Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The very next person the Twins met in Sugar-Plum Land was the Easter Bunny.
There he was in a fine red coat, hopping along with a large basket on each arm.
"Goodness, I've lost my calendar," he was saying over and over to himself. "I can't remember where I put it."
Then, catching sight of the Twins he hopped up alongside and said politely, "Excuse me for not tipping my hat, but my hands are otherwise engaged. I wish to ask if you happen to know where I can find a calendar. I can't remember whether I put mine in the refrigerator, down the cellar hole or on the roof. And now I can't tell when Easter comes." "Nancy told him, 'but we can ask Mr. Peanbunt, the Moon-Man, if you like. He fixes dates for everything.'"
"Oh, thank you," remarked the Easter Bunny hastily. "Don't go to so much trouble. No doubt I'll find it. But one has to be careful. If, by any chance, I left the Easter baskets under the parlor curtains on April Fool's Day instead of Easter, it would be shocking. The kiddies would think I was fooling them. It would be just as bad for Santa Claus to fill their stockings on the Fourth of July."

"We are going out to the Cut-Out Lady's house," said Nudge. "We can ask her. Perhaps she has a calendar on her wrong side, as she was cut out of a magazine."

Suddenly the Easter Bunny set his baskets down and began patting himself all over. "I believe—I do believe," he said, "I really believe I have that calendar on me somewhere. I think I put it—yes, sir! Here it is with my grocery receipt. Now we'll see when Easter comes. How it is! Why Easter comes on the first day of April. It's on April Fool's Day after all!"

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

Jack noticed that the little candy box cars were made so that each one took just so many chocolate peppermints. There was room for just one row and the peppermints started hopping in. It was great fun to watch them so over the side of the boxes and into bins.

One by one the candy box cars were filled. As the last peppermint got into a car the little Candy Land train pulled up a bit and the next box was ready. Finally every peppermint was aboard. Then two more All-Day-Suckers started cutting the covers on the candy box cars.

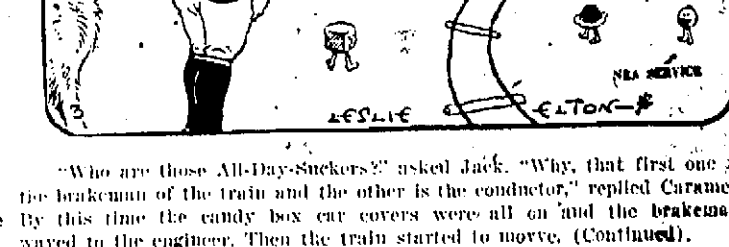

"Who are those All-Day-Suckers?" asked Jack. "Why, that first one is the brakeman of the train and the other is the conductor," replied Caramel. By this time the candy box car covers were all on and the brakeman waved to the engineer. Then the train started to move. (Continued.)

Easter's Just 'Round the Corner; Spring's at Hand and Tanenhaus Brothers

—alert to every changing gesture of the mode—are festively ready with a pageant of new garments, authentically smart, in which to meet the new season.

EVERY correct variation of the smart silhouette finds expression in our fashions, whether in the easy wrap around lines of the new coats, the sleek slimness of suits, or the varying draperies of dresses. The vogue of the long coat and cape has met with a rich response in twill and the soft-pile fabrics and in crepe. The costume-suit, with its flaring sleeves, box of finger-tip length jacket and crepe blouse-top is interpreted by a host of delightful examples in our stocks. The separate jaquette and the decorative costume-blouse are here in versions to delight every taste.

Perhaps you're looking for a simple suit or dress—but one that has the correct lines—at a moderate price. We are especially proud of having garments so smart, and so well-made, for so little. Or perhaps it's a sumptuous coat or brilliant evening frock? Here, too, are exquisite reproductions of recent New York importations, naturally at prices far below the originals. And between these extremes, frocks and suits of varying degrees of simplicity and elaborateness, to meet the most varied tastes and needs.

Easter means new clothes for the men folks and boys quite as much as for the women and misses: a new Spring Suit or Topcoat, for father or brother, a new suit for the boy.

Court House

Johnson Gets Suspended Sentence
James Johnson was given a sentence of 10 days in jail Tuesday when he appeared in Probate court and failed to give a satisfactory explanation why he neglected to cause his son, James, Jr., to attend school regularly. Johnson, who was brought into court on complaint of Harry W. Wagner, attendance officer, was given another chance when Judge Gilliland later suspended the jail sentence on his promise to keep the boy in school in the future. He was required to pay the costs.

Leaves For South

Judge A. Z. Blair left Tuesday on a trip which will carry him to various points in the South on legal business. He will be absent until the latter part of the week, when he will go to West Union to confer with associate counsel, Attorney Frank Shively, in respect to prosecuting error proceedings to the Appellate court in the case of Robert Davis, Seaman, under sentence of death for the murder of George Webb, a neighbor, last October.

Case Compromised

A settlement having been effected by the parties to the suit of Brown & Secomb against James C. Davis, Director General of Railroads, an approved entry was filed in the office of the clerk of courts Tuesday dismissing the action. The plaintiffs sued to recover $240 on a claim for a shipment of forty boxes of lemons, shipped from Brooklyn in June, 1919, to this city, consigned to Joseph Sodaro, who refused to accept the fruit.

Partition Ordered

Judge Thomas entered an order Tuesday directing that partition of the real estate involved in the suit of Alfred H. Richardson against William B. Richardson and others, John R. Hughes, William D. Tremper and Gilbert H. Dadds, were named as appraisers by the court.

Default Judgment

Judge Thomas awarded judgment by default for the plaintiff in the case of Edward E. Allen against Roscoe V. Hague and Ollie Hague, which was brought to recover on a promissory note.

Seeks Order Modified

Mabel Wiggins, formerly Mabel Bonzo, filed an application in Common Pleas court Tuesday seeking modification of a former order of the court in respect to the payment of alimony by her former husband, Louis Bonzo.

Mrs. Wiggins in her application says that Bonzo was ordered and directed by the court to pay her the sum of $8 a week for the support of their minor child at the time she was granted a divorce in 1918. She claims the payments were suspended in 1920 on the alleged false statements and representations of Bonzo that he was then suffering from physical ailment to such an extent as to wholly incapacitate him from performing any work. She further asserts that Bonzo was at the time, and at all times since employed and earning good wages and asks that the original order be restored and that he be required to pay as therein provided.

Twenty-four Years Ago

Gilbert Spencer and Virginia Wilcox, a popular young couple, of Lower Nile, were married at the home of the bride's parents, near Roma Vista, Mr. A. Plumb, officiating.

Secretary of State Charles Kibbey was in the city and incidentally did a little missionary work for his friend, Harry Daugherty, candidate for governor.

The celebrated dish case between H. S. Johnson and B. F. Rorse, was carried to common pleas court on appeal from Squire Henry Hall's court. The magistrate's finding was in favor of Johnson, and by virtue of a rehearing suit, gave the dish in dispute to Mr. Johnson.

Charles Knautz, salesman, claiming Charleston, W. Va., as his home, was a visitor in the city, and as time seemed to hang heavy on his hands, he wandered out on Eleventh street, in the district known as "Bail Lands." He met two damsels and then discovered that his diamond watch pin was missing.

Hamilton Harpence, a veteran of the Civil War, died at Friendship. He was 61 years old.

Licenses to wed were granted to these couples: John W. Heron, 31, and Lottie Holmes Lang, 28; Cyrus McAnn, 25, and Emma Kirkpatrick, 25.

Lodge Is Inspected

Inspection of K. of P. lodge at Otway was made Saturday night by Deputy E. A. Steadman of Sciotoville. The Sciotoville K. of P. degree team conferred the third degree, or Knight Rank, for the inspection ceremonies. A D. O. K. K. delegation was present to host the big ceremonial to be held by the Dokey organization in Portsmouth May 12.

Plan For Big Meeting

Two candidates, William Reynolds and Walter Macabee, received the second degree at the weekly meeting of Scioto Lodge 1, O. O. F., last night. Several applications were received and plans discussed for the county-wide meeting to be held in this city June 2, when candidates from all lodges in the county will be here for their final degree.

Special Services

At the Easter services at the Baptist church, Fourteenth and Waller streets, the collection will be taken by "Coby" Williams, four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Williams, and Clara Turner, two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Turner each, little one trying with each other to collect the largest amount for the benefit of the church.

For Creaky Joints

Just rub on the new application called Joint-Ease if you want to know what real joint comfort is. It's for stiff, swollen, or painful joints whether caused by rheumatism or not.

A few seconds' rubbing and it soaks right in through skin and flesh right down to ligament and bone.

It oils up and limbers up the joints, subdues the inflammation and relieves the swelling. Joint-Ease is the one great remedy for all joint troubles. Fisher & Streich's Pharmacy and other live druggists are dispensing it daily—a tube for 60 cents.—Advertisement.

Portsmouth, A Spiritual Battlefield

(By Garnett E. McElhaney)

There is a word that will always thrill me—a word that will ever bring memories of a sight that is stamped indelibly on the pages of the past—a word that means victory and glory and power—and that word is Portsmouth. To some it may mean a manufacturing city in the southern part of the state of Ohio, but to others who had eyes to see and ears to hear, it is the name of a great spiritual battleground where King Jesus led a Gideon's band of Crusaders —and they won the battle in a glorious, wonderful way.

Dr. George Wood Anderson surely gave forth those inspiring messages with power. He is a genius. A genius? Yes, he has a great gift of intellect which was proven in each of his great, stirring, lucid messages. All who heard Dr. Anderson will agree with me that he has the technique and a large portion, too, Prof. Walter Jenkins and Mr. B. D. Ackley each, are endowed with rare faculties and this is always becoming a reality. What a money. Mrs. Anderson is also a musical composer (so we see in the red song book) and also a helpful instructor. The meetings were indeed an incomparable treat to Portsmouth and surrounding vicinity—for mind you, not only the people of the Peerless City attended but also people from other cities, villages and the country. You know one just couldn't stay away when they knew an extraordinary opportunity awaited them afternoons and nights.

Let me tell you about the crowds. They were so like the multitudes that followed Jesus in those olden days when He trod the hills of Judea and walked by Galilee's shores, hungry and eager for the gospel of salvation. Some nights many could not find their way into the large tabernacle and there were overflow meetings too.

I know the earnest, anxious masses thrilled the heart of the Evangelist. From your conviction, is the word hungry for Jesus? Is it true if He were lifted up He would draw all men unto Himself?

Oh, how I wish I could have seen it—could have felt the lift and glory of it and could have heard the messenger with a message and the power to deliver it.

The altar call was the moment of moments and was given in faith and it always became a reality. What a great opportunity for those who wished to come forward and consecrate or re-consecrate their lives unto God. From every part of the building they came, down the aisles to grasp the Evangelist's hand.

The story of those who came forward during the Crusade revival require much printed space were it ever published. It was written, however, in the hearts of the people who were there. As the last meeting came to a finish and as we wended our way from the tabernacle one could just feel that each individual was happy and sad. Glad they came and sorry they were going and the meetings were over. It just seemed each heart was singing: "God Be With You 'Till We Meet Again."

Beaver Life Explained To Rotarians

Dr. Charles Leeds of Chelsea, Mass., a guest at the home of Arthur H. Bannion, was a guest at the meeting last night.

HOLY WEEK IN CATHOLIC CHURCHES

Holy Week is being observed in Both Saint Mary's and Holy Redeemer churches with special services.

Tomorrow night at seven-thirty services will include the Rosary and Benediction will be held at Saint Mary's.

Holy Thursday there will be High Masses beginning at eight o'clock in both parishes.

Good Friday morning services will be held at Saint Mary's at eight o'clock, and at Holy Redeemer at seven o'clock. Friday afternoon at 2:30 there will be stations of the Cross at Saint Mary's while similar services will be held at the Holy Redeemer Friday night. The services Holy Saturday will begin at six-thirty at Holy Redeemer and at Saint Mary's at seven.

The Masses in both parishes on Easter Sunday will be at the regular hours: 7:00 and 9:00 at Holy Redeemer and 7:30 and 9:30 at Saint Mary's. Both churches will be appropriately decorated for the occasion. Special music is being arranged. At the first services at Saint Mary's on Easter, music and singing will be furnished by the High School Orchestra and Junior Choir, while the Senior Choir will sing at the High Mass with organ accompaniment. Collections in both churches on Easter will be for the benefit of the pastors.

Plan To Work Out National Business Problems At C. O. F. C. Meeting In New York

Wm. S. Harris, secretary of the Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce, one of the representative business organizations connected with the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, declared today that he expected the annual meeting of the National Chamber in New York, May 7 to 10 to bring out constructive suggestions for the solution of national business problems. With from four to five thousand representative business men from all parts of the country in attendance, every aspect of these problems will be considered, he said, adding:

"American business is out of the rut of depression that held it a year ago. It's up to us now to keep out, and the business brains of America can do it."

"What is needed is a pooling of our genius for business to formulate a progressive program. We should translate business experience into safe and sane plans. The New York meeting will bring together men who have had experience in everything that make up American business and

What! Adams County To Get Railroad?

WEST UNION, March 27—

(Special to The Times)—Surveyors are working in the vicinity of Lawshe, this county, following route of the Black Diamond survey made about 25 years ago. It is rumored that a railroad is to be built along this route. According to a prevalent rumor, it is said that the Henry Ford interests are contemplating a road connecting the D. T. & I. with the L. & N. leading into coal fields in Kentucky which he is said to have purchased.

With The Revivals

At First Christian

The first night of the follow-up campaign at First Christian church started things off in great shape with David M. Hughes directing the chorus and congregational singing while Mrs. Hughes presided at one piano and Miss Violet McFarland at the other, the two instruments in unison greatly aided in the music. Rev. Gerald Culbertson, pastor of the church preached.

In his usual easy, confident manner Rev. Culbertson last night took up work of reaping the harvest that has ripened within the past five weeks and began the work with a master hand.

In the course of his remarks on 2 Tim. 3:15 he said: "Paul compliments Timothy very highly in this verse when he tells of his teachings from childhood. I fear we have less excuse for ignorance of the Word of God. It is astounding the lack of knowledge of the Holy Scriptures. You, even in our halls of congress and in our universities there is dense ignorance of the truth of this Old Book."

"There is a time in our life when we must establish the question of authority which must be raised and settled or else will go blindly on. We must know what is that supreme oracle of truth and justice. Through all the ages, men have pawned all, even life itself to establish authority. But I must say unto you that the Bible, the Holy Scriptures, is the supreme oracle of God."

"We might study the Book under five divisions, these all begin with 'C'. The Christ is the center of all. The Old Testament conceals Christ, the gospels convinces men, the Acts converts men, the Epistles confirms men, and the Revelations crown men, he declared."

At U. B. Church

Rev. E. H. Deller, the pastor, preached last night at the special service in the United Brethren church, and a large crowd was in attendance.

A chorus choir, led by Mrs. E. H. Deller, had charge of the singing, and the Red Song Book, used in the New Crusade, was used.

Services will be held throughout the week in the United Brethren church, and special services will be held Easter Sunday.

At Franklin M. E.

Special services are being held at Franklin M. E. church this week, and the attendance last night was splendid. Rev. Charles Severinghaus will preach each evening, and special music is being arranged by a chorus choir.

These services, in the nature of a pre-Easter follow-up program, will no doubt meet with great success.

Holy Week At First Church

The first service of Holy Week was held at the First Presbyterian Church last night. Rev. William H. Gleason, the pastor, spoke on "The Barren Fig Tree" and J. E. Lodwick sang "The Great Judgment." The attendance at last night's service was large, and a most suc-

HER STORY UNEFINISHED.
NEW YORK, Mar. 27—A story which 16 year old Miriam Wilson had started to write today for her school magazine will never be completed. Miriam went up to the roof of the five story apartment where she lived, seeking quiet to write her masterpiece. A few minutes later one of the tenants heard a crash and investigation, found her body on the pavement of the roof.

It is believed the girl, who was subject to attacks of dizziness, swooned and fell to her death.

Church Prelates Sentenced to Die.
MOSCOW, March 27—Archbishop Zepikow, head of the Roman Catholic church in Russia and all the sixteen prelates on trial with him charged with opposing the soviet government, were found guilty today. Archbishop Zepikow and Vicar General Butchkevich were sentenced to death. The central executive committee ordered a stay of execution of the death sentence.

Five of the prisoners were sentenced to ten years imprisonment. Eight others received three year sentence while two were given a six months term, the latter including one choir boy whose sentence was commuted.

HELPFUL MONEY
"THE HOME OF PERSONAL LOANS"
The object of our business is to serve those who are in need of financial service, whether for remedial or constructive purposes, or find it convenient to improve their living conditions.
Our system of industrial lending provides a way of borrowing money without asking friends to indorse for you. This and our other simple processes of arrangements provides an excellent financial service for personal use.
Loans are made in amounts from $15 to $500 and on Chattel Property, such as furniture, pianos, automobiles, live stock and etc. This arrangement enables you to borrow on the property you own.
You will like our easy payment plan. You have from 1 to 20 months to repay. You can pay as fast as you wish, and the quicker paid the less it costs.
For prompt, courteous and confidential bank-like service, see us.

AUTO HITS POLE; WELLMAN HURT

A. J. Wellman, whose family reside at Sixth and Union streets, is in Mercy hospital in Jackson, Mich. The result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident near that city Monday when another car crowded his car off the road. Wellman says it crashed into a telephone pole. He suffered bruises and cuts about the head and face when thrown against the windshield, which was shattered and his left knee cap may be broken. Mr. Wellman received a message last night conveying the news of her husband's accident. Mr. Wellman sells refrigeration plants for meat markets and Michigan is in his territory.

Market News

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, March 27.—Opening prices in today's stock market were irregular with the early gains and losses about evenly divided. Fresh buying power made its appearance in such stocks as United States Steel common, Bethlehem B. Pan American and Kelly-Springfield, all of which improved fractionally, and in Beech which advanced 1/2. The traditional "selling on the good news" resulted in a recession of 1/2 points in California Petroleum, directors of which have recommended a 400 per cent stock dividend.

Extensive short covering, particularly in the equipments and such recent industrial favorites as American Woolen, American Can, Studebaker and T. S. Rubber, combined with fresh buying of the shipments, turned the course of prices upward after the initial selling orders had been absorbed. Marland Oil and Beecham which extended their gains to two points while Marine preferred, American Corporation, Gulf States Steel and Stewart Warner each sold at least a point higher. The chemical shares were heavy. Virginia Chemical and American Agricultural down 1/2 to 2 points. Foreign exchanges opened irregular, dollar sterling selling 1/4 lower at 4.68 1/2 and French francs advancing 7/8 points to 6.70 cents.

Marking up the call money rate to 5 1/2 per cent, the highest renewal rate in many weeks, which was incidental to quarterly settlement for April brought another flood of selling orders into the market. Many stocks which had advanced one to two points on the early recovery, fell back sharply when the money rate was announced. California Petroleum extended its loss to 3/4. Kroger and American Tobacco B 2 1/2 each. Atlantic Coast Line to two and Illinois Central, American Can, Crucible Steel, Pressed Steel Car and Household Products sold 1 1/2 points below yesterday's final figures. Partial recovery was made later in response to heavy buying of U. S. Alcohol and Famous Players and the appearance of substantial support in Baldwin and other leaders.

The reactionary trend of stock prices which has continued for five days was checked at least temporarily today and closing quotations were materially higher. Further selling pressure, based on speculative fears of an impending increase in the federal reserve discount rate, was in evidence during the morning but the strong buying support at the lower levels prompted short covering and prices turned definitely upward with oils, steels and equipments taking a

Chicago Grain And Provisions

CHICAGO, Mar. 27.—Owing to the fact that for three days wheat prices had been declining bears showed caution today and with offerings scarce the market scored a little upturn during the early dealings. Shorts were moderate buyers of May and commission houses took July and Sept. to a fair extent. As a rule however, crop reports were favorable. The opening which ranged from 3/4 off to 3/4 up with May 1 1/8 1/2 to 1 1/8 1/2 and July 1 1/4 1/2 to 1 1/4 1/2, was followed by gains all around, interrupted though by transient setbacks. Corn and oats were firmer with wheat. After opening unchanged to 3/4 to 3/4 higher 73 to 73 1/2, the corn market held near to the initial range.

The closing was firm. 3/4 to 1 1/4 net higher, with May 1 1/8 1/2 to 1 1/8 1/2 and July 1 1/4 1/2 to 1 1/4 1/2, was followed by gains all around, interrupted though by transient setbacks. Corn and oats were firmer with wheat. After opening unchanged to 3/4 to 3/4 higher 73 to 73 1/2, the corn market held near to the initial range.

Army To Operate Barge Line On Ohio River

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Creation of a barge line to be operated by the army inland and coastwise waterways service on the Monongahela, Ohio and Mississippi rivers connecting New Orleans and Pittsburgh, and touching at all intermediary points of importance was described today by Secretary Weeks as the ultimate aim of the war department in finding employment for a large number of tugs and barges now in its possession. He said it was his purpose to use craft taken from Edward G. Galt in St. Louis yesterday as a part of the proposed system.

BURNS ARE FATAL TO CHILD

Burns suffered by Lemmie Rase, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rase, of Wagner's Station, Lawrence county, Saturday, March 17, when he fell into a bucket of hot water, caused his death early Saturday evening, March 24.

A young woman employed in the Rase home had placed a bucket of scalding water on the kitchen floor when she started to scrub it. The child, only two years and nine months old, stumbled and fell when near the bucket, his hands and arms going into it, and caused it to turn over, the hot water splashing on the child's back and side. The most severe burns were on the arms, hands, right shoulder and right side. For several days it was thought the child would get along all right but complications developed which resulted in death.

Besides the parents, two sisters, Ruth and Dorothy survive. Mr. and Mrs. Rase formerly lived in Marion and moved to near Powellville several years ago.

George Rase, of Eleventh street, Adam Rase, Jr., of near Powellville, Frank Rase of Timmonds avenue, and Ernest Rase of Franklin Furnace are uncles of the child.

Masterpiece Of French Composer To Be Sung

For nearly sixty years the great cathedral choir of France have sung on each succeeding Good Friday "Les Sept Paroles du Christ," perhaps the most notable sacred composition of the famous Francois Clement Theodore Dubois, one of the most distinguished of French musicians, winner of the Grand Prix de Rome, organist of the Church of the Madeleine and Director of the Conservatoire. This oratorio fittingly enshrines the Seven Last Words of Christ in music worthy of the exalted theme. It is rarely that the opportunity presents itself to lovers of the best in music to hear this famous composition because of the difficulty it presents to the average choir. For this reason most choirmasters are afraid to attempt its rendition. This difficulty has been overcome by the choir of All Saints' Church, which by securing the aid of the best solo voices in the city has been able to overcome the difficulties referred to and is in a position to do justice to its difficult task when it will sing Dubois' masterpiece on Good Friday evening. It is not too much to say this will be one of the great outstanding events in the musical life of the city for a long time past. It would be difficult to imagine a more fitting manner in which to bring to a close the Death Day of the Lord than that of hearing a reverent and adequate presentation of this wonderful music. And the acoustic properties of the stately old building at the corner of Fourth and Court streets will go far towards enhancing the quality of the work done by the artists who are to have the honor of presenting this oratorio for the first time in Portsmouth. The seating capacity of the church will be increased for this occasion.

Local relatives and friends of Mr. Edward Haggerty, state examiner will be sorry to learn that he is seriously ill at Mt. Carmel Hospital in Columbus. Mr. Haggerty is well known in this city as he spent some time here last year examining the city and county books. He has relatives on the West and also at McCullough.

There were no new developments Tuesday in the official investigation by county and city authorities in connection with the death of William Frazier, who, according to Coroner Virgil E. Fowler, was caused from the effects of drinking moonshine liquor. Frazier dropped dead at the home of Ed. Taylor, 45 Gay street, last Friday evening.

The officers are bending their efforts to ascertain where the alleged liquor came from but so far they have been unable to get any clue on that score. While the probe will be continued in the hope of obtaining some tangible evidence yet it was indicated today that about all hope had been abandoned in securing sufficient information on which to base a prosecution.

Coroner Fowler expected to file the transcript of the inquest and autopsy with the clerk of courts today.

THE FLIRT

Like a moth irresistibly drawn to the flaming candle, so were men drawn to Cora Madison; just a wee side glance from those coy eyes and the damage was done. Yet you couldn't blame Cora; it was as natural for her to flirt as it was to eat, and, like all her kind, there came a time when she had to pay the penalty for her indiscretions.

Booth Tarkington's story, "The Flirt," was one of the most widely read books in the country, and its entertainment value is greatly enhanced by its presentation in screen form. It was made into a magnificent film by the Universal Pictures Corporation, and will be seen at the Eastland Theatre on Monday of next week.

WOLVERINES CERTAIN TO SHINE IN THE WESTERN CONFERENCE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Mar. 27.—With the Western Conference title practically decided, the University of Michigan is now turning its attention to Coach Steve Farrell's 1923 team.

Farrell has at his command a most promising squad of athletes and unless the advance hope is all wrong the Wolverines are certain of cutting quite a swath in various meets this year.

Recently, Michigan beat the University of Chicago tracksters, 65 to 30, the Maroons copying but one first place outside of the relay race. That was in the mile run where Michigan men came in second and third. In all of the other eight events, the Wolverines showed the way. In a word, it was a most auspicious start.

Coach Farrell, judging from what the lads have done to date, has at least nine athletes who should bring points to the Ann Arbor school no matter what the class of the competition may be. Chief among these, of course, is Dellart, linchpin, sensational colored star who bids fair to equal, if not surpass, the all-around performances of his predecessor, Carl Johnson.

Bulward won both the hurdle races at Chicago, breaking one record and tying the other. He is also a clever high jumper, and a wonderful broad jumper, being capable of doing over 24 feet in the latter event. Obviously, great things are expected of him.

BASEBALL IN MILLBROOK ASSURED

Otha Lewis, who will pilot the baseball team which will hold forth on the diamond at Millbrook this season is busy making plans to organize his club, the personnel of which will be composed of the star players of the Industrial League.

The new manager has already signed up a number of the crack performers and no doubt he will put a nifty aggregation in the field for the opening season which will be staged about the middle of April.

Any player desiring to try for a berth on the club are urged to get in touch with Mr. Lewis at 1601-X any evening after six o'clock. The first practice session will be held on the Findlay street lot Saturday afternoon.

P. H. S. Books Two New Elevens

Two new high school football teams will be seen in action here during the 1923 gridiron season. Athletic Director E. B. McComb yesterday received signed contracts from Nelsonville and the Trade High School of Columbus, Nelsonville is to come here on October 13 while Trade High is to be seen in action here against the Red and Blue on November 17.

With these two teams booked, three new teams have been secured for the 1923 season. Hamilton High is the other eleven looked for a game here.

Champs On Bill

NEW YORK, March 27.—Eugene Cirioli, French holder of the European featherweight title, will make his American debut Wednesday night when he appears in an exhibition bout the "all-star" boxing card arranged to raise funds for the benefit of devastated France.

Besides Cirioli, five ring champions, Benny Leonard, Johnny Dundee, Frankie Genaro, Mickey Walker, and Joe Lynch are slated to appear, while Pancho Villa, former American flyweight title holder and Luis Firpo, South American heavyweight also are on the program.

Big Game Is Off

The proposed post-season basketball game between the P. H. S. Junior team and the South Webster high school five has been called off. The Junior class wanted to stage the game to raise money for a banquet fund but, last night when the time arrived for final plans to be made, South Webster sent word that the school team had been disbanded.

Johnson Wins

BOSTON, Mass., March 27.—Floyd Johnson, of Iowa, knocked out Ray Thompson of New York in 20 seconds here last night. The Iowa heavyweight sent Thompson reeling to the floor with a punch to the jaw after 12 seconds of milling and the New Yorker stayed down until the count of eight. A blow to the right temple felled him for the last time.

Beat Troop 8

Troop 17, Boy Scouts, by winning over Troop 8 last night, decided the question as to who would take part in the championship struggle tonight with Troop 1. Last week Troop 8 won over Troop 17 but the game was protested and had to be played over. Troop 17 staged a runaway affair last night when the game ended 25 to 18.

Tonight when Troop 17 clashed with Troop 1 a silver lining will be at stake for this battle decides the Senior Boy Scout League basketball championship.

The lineups and summary last night:

Troop 17. R. F. ... Lewis ... J. ... Ballenger ... Rutherford ... C. ... Haley ... L. ... M. ... Substitutes—Snyder for Labeled, Emmert for Schuler.

Field goals—Krick 7; Schuler 2; Emmert 3; Hirth 2; Labeled 1; Snyder 1; Lewis 2; Ballenger 1; Rutherford 4; Biggs 1.

Free throws—Hirth 1; Emmert 1; Labeled 1; Lewis 2.

Referee—Henderson.

Firpo Matched

NEW YORK, March 27.—Luis Angel Firpo, South American contender for the heavyweight boxing championship, has been matched with Farmer Lodge of Minneapolis for a 15 round contest at the Charity Boxing Show on May 12 in the Yankee Stadium. Tex Rickard announced today. This bout will precede the Jess Willard-Floyd Johnson encounter.

Lodge was picked as the opponent from a field of several candidates, including Jack Remont of Canada, and Bob Roger, of Chicago. He was understood to be practically signed for the bout until William Muldoon, chairman of the state athletic commission, interfered and barred him on the ground that he was not a suitable match for the giant from the Argentine.

Called Off

The proposed match between Strangler Lewis and Cliff Hinchley which was to have occurred in New York Monday night has been called off. The postponement came at the request of the New York State Athletic commission.

70 PLAYERS ARE TRAINING

PRINCETON, Fla., March 27.—Perhaps the biggest aggregation of ball players ever gathered at one training league camp is doing daily stunts at this resort.

Manager Rickey and some 40 of his athletes, representing the St. Louis Cardinals, are on the job. The other 30 are under contract to the Syracuse club of the International League, which it is understood is controlled by the owners of the St. Louis Nationals.

No doubt Manager Rickey arranged the joint training trip, so that he could look over both teams, with a hope that the Syracuse club might uncover some recruit worthy of big league consideration.

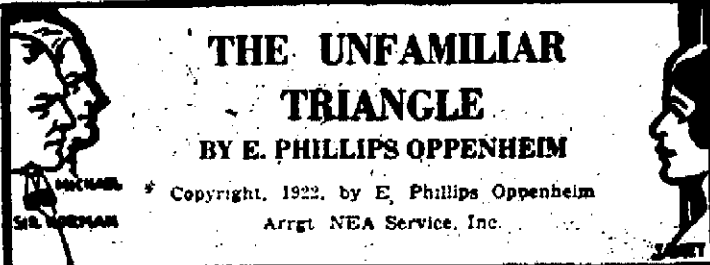

Incidentally in this way Rickey can determine the players on the Syracuse club who lack the necessary ability to maintain the International League standard. In order to give Syracuse a strong team the Cardinal players just shy of major league ability will be turned over to that club.

Never have so many ball players been on one field at the same time, except possibly on some college athletic field. However, Rickey seemed to delight in going from one squad to another, correcting a fault here, planning the style of some pitcher, or offering some general advice on a certain feature of play.

Certainly no bunch of players in any major league goes through a more intensive training than do the St. Louis Cardinals and Syracuse Internationals.

THE UNFAMILIAR TRIANGLE

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Copyright, 1922, by E. Phillips Oppenheim
Arrt. NEA Service, Inc.

Vendetta begins between MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYES, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead an officer sent to arrest him. Janet becomes Sayers' wife and accomplice. In the Leeds bank robbery Michael narrowly escapes capture and is forced to flee the country. Janet receives a legacy of two hundred and fifty pounds and takes passages to Marseilles. During the journey she makes friends with a Mr. Popple, who wants her to keep away from a passenger named Louisa Martin. Louisa visits Janet's stateroom and reveals herself as one of Michael's confederates. A wireless comes to Louisa in care of Janet.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

Janet is Talking

"Wait here," she ordered, snatching the message from my hand. There was a heavy swell that night, and I was glad to sit down upon my bunk. She returned in a very few moments. Her cheeks were flushed. She handed me back the message. Underneath it she had pencilled the interpretation: "Danger! It must be dealt with promptly Louisa."

I looked at it and shook my head. "I suppose I am a fool," I admitted, "but I can't understand a word."

"You are a fool," she agreed. "No wonder Michael never trusted you with a code! It means that some one dangerous must be traveling in Stateroom 97, who must be dealt with promptly by me—Louisa—my name. Do you understand now?"

"But how could Michael know that I was on the steamer, and why should he have sent this message to me instead of to you?" I demanded.

"The chief of police at Marseilles has a copy of every passenger list of steamers leaving London and calling at Marseilles, forwarded overland."

She replied, "Michael has a friend in the Bureau. It is possible that I am being watched. He knew quite well that I should find you out, and that I should be of more use than you were likely to be. . . . Now to discover who is traveling in Stateroom 97."

She called to the steward, who was passing outside. He unhooked the door and looked in. "Steward, can you tell me the name of the gentleman in No. 97?" she inquired.

"Mr. Popple, madam," an American gentleman, he announced. "What are you going to do?" I asked.

She smiled in a peculiar fashion. "Obey, Michael," she answered softly. . . .

The next morning, Mr. Popple came over and talked to me again. He had shown me from the first a considerable amount of attention, but his conversation had always been of the most ordinary kind. This morning, however, in the midst of a discussion on Ladies' footwear, he broke off and addressed me in different fashion.

"So you're making friends with the woman who looked as though she wanted to bite your head off at Gibraltar?" he remarked.

"I shouldn't have said so," I replied cautiously.

"She was in your stateroom last night, wasn't she?" he queried.

"For a moment or two," I admitted. "Why not?"

He watched the smoke from his cigar thoughtfully. "I guess you've got common-sense enough to take a word of advice," he said. "Here it is. Keep out of it."

"Keep out of what?" I demanded. He shrugged his shoulders.

"That's a fine show of porpoises," he observed, looking over the side of the ship. "I don't know as I've ever seen a finer in these waters."

"In other words—" I ventured, smiling. "Incident closed," he declared. "Maybe I've opened my mouth too wide as it is."

So, although I knew now for certain that Mr. Popple was a detective, I said no word of this to Louisa, even though, during the next few hours, I witnessed an amazing development of their acquaintance. They sat together for several hours, and Louisa's beautiful eyes seemed every moment to become more eloquent. Without a doubt she had made up her mind to captivate him, and to all appearance she was succeeding.

I was walking up and down the deck with the doctor, and we heard scraps of their conversation as we passed—an assignment for the morning evening at Marseilles, proposed boldly enough by Mr. Popple, and assented to by a timorous but eloquent flash of the eyes by Louisa. After dinner they took their coffee out on deck. Their heads were even closer together, their voices dropped, and, as they passed, began to smile. It was obvious that an affair was in progress. I was surprised, therefore, to hear Mr. Popple suddenly address the doctor, who had joined me again for a few minutes.

"Just a moment, Doc."

We stopped at once. Mr. Popple seemed to rise with difficulty to his feet.

"Guess I am sick, Doc." Just step round to my stateroom with me for a moment.

Mr. Popple, suddenly very pale, swayed on his feet and clutched at the doctor's arm. I expected every moment to see him collapse. We all turned to Louisa. She shook her head, apparently as bewildered as the rest of us.

"We had just finished our coffee," she explained, "when Mr. Popple, who had been talking a great deal, became silent. He spoke of a pain in his head, and I thought he seemed queer. Then he called out to the doctor. That is all I know about it."

By degrees the others melted away. I sank into Mr. Popple's vacant chair. As soon as we were alone, Mrs. Louisa Martin looked at me covertly. There was a flash of triumph in her half-closed eyes.

"So," she murmured, "I do not think that Mr. Popple will follow me about Marseilles."

"Do you mean that you have poisoned him?" I gasped.

"She looked at me, with a queer little smile.

"Some," she said, "prefer to shoot. I choose the way of safety."

Then I knew that Michael had told her everything. In that moment, all that I had ever felt of love for him turned to hate. . . .

We entered the harbor at Marseilles late on the following morning, and drifted down on our way to the dock. We stood leaning over the side, waiting, prepared to land, but waiting for the gangplank at the farther end of the gangway to give the word. Suddenly I felt a thrill pass through my whole body. Leaning with his back to one of the wooden pillars was a man with tanned, almost swarthy skin, leoparded with a hungry, wolflike grin of his thin lips. He was shabbily dressed even for a laborer. Yet I knew Michael, and although he never glanced again in my direction, I knew that he had recognized me. I made my way to where Louisa was standing, and I touched her on the arm.

"Look there," I said, directing her attention cautiously toward the lounging figure.

She looked at him for a moment without interest. Then suddenly the change came into her face. She clutched at my arm.

"There is danger," she muttered. "He has been obliged to flee. Alas, our week at the Villa exists no longer!"

A moment afterward, there was a movement toward the gangway. I followed the others off the ship, and waited until a magnificent-looking functionary, smelling of garlic, had made mystic signs with a piece of chalk upon my modest trunk. The porter shouldered it and turned to me for instructions.

"A carriage to the Hotel Splendide," I directed.

"It is false," I replied. "I came to Marseilles for a holiday only."

amongst her clientele. Then, with a fat, beringed finger, she beckoned us behind the counter and led us down some steps, along a passage, into a somber and fearsome-looking apartment, a room furnished with a cracked gilt mirror upon the mantelpiece, walls reeking with damp, and some violet plush chairs of incredible shabbiness. In the corner was a bed, and upon it Michael was seated, still in his disguise of a French courier, but with a new look upon his face—the hunted, desperate look of a man at bay.

MRS. G. W. HALL SICK FOR YEARS

Wants Women to Know How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lima, Ohio. "Indeed, your medicine is all you say it is. I had very severe troubles such as women often have, and could do no heavy work. I was sick for several years, and from reading your ads. I finally decided to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now doing my own washing, which I haven't done for several years, and can walk long distances without those dragging pains and weak feelings. The Vegetable Compound is fine, and I never forget to say a good word for it to other women when they say they need something."—Mrs. G. W. Hall, 538 Hazel Avenue, Lima, Ohio.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. Their trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Hall's experience is but one of many.

Ringside seats for the Legion's boxing show which will be held next Monday evening at the Winter Garden, will go on sale this evening at The Smoke House.

The committee in charge is expecting a capacity house and those who desire choice seats are urged to get their order in early.

Blair and Howell, who are the main performers, are very evenly matched according to their records. Both of these boys have met Earl Butler and Young Webb. Howell has defeated Young Webb and Webb, while Nip easily defeated Webb and many think the local star was entitled to the verdict over Butler when they met here last June.

Considerable interest is attached to the semi-final which brings together Shifty Dando, Portsmouth, and Mickey Flynn of Dayton. Dando, although a resident of Portsmouth for the past two months, has made a legion of friends. He is a faithful trainer and has excellent habits which commend him to the boxing fans. He has fought some of the best 130 pound boys in the state and received his early coaching from Jimmie Dine of New Castle, Pa., who piloted George Chip to the middle-weight championship.

Nah Burt of Portsmouth, and Kid Lucky of Dayton will furnish the fireworks in the six-round bout. Burt is improving every day and has never been defeated in a local ring.

Lad Lester of New Boston, J. I. Marston's protegee, and Kid Suter will open the show with a four-round bout which should start with plenty of action. Both of these boxers are terrific hitters, and it's hardly possible that both will be there at the finish.

Ironton Five Here Tonight

The Holy Redeemer Wildcats tonight will clash in Moose hall with the Flying Dutchmen of Ironton. The game will begin at eight o'clock and an admission of 25 cents will be charged.

Recently on the Ironton floor the Dutchmen won over the Wildcats but the locals are counting on staging a real comeback tonight by winning, thereby making the series a tie. The Dutchmen five is composed mostly of St. Joseph Select players, all members of the team being older and more experienced than the Wildcats.

Portsmouth basketball fans who wish to see a real game should be present tonight when the referee sounds the whistle.

AT ALL SANTS' CHURCH TONIGHT

There will be a forty-five minute service at All Saints' Church tonight at 7:30. The subject of the pastor's address will be "The Appointment Hour," and it will deal with the great crisis in the life of Christ that moment when he announced that His hour had come and that His betrayer was at hand.

All members of the church are asked to make a special effort to be present at as many services as possible during Holy Week. Where were you last night? Those who can avail themselves of the privilege of being present at the Holy Communion should make due use of their opportunity if on no other day at least on Maundy Thursday where there will be celebrations at 7:00 a. m. and 10:00 a. m. Remember Christ's words of sorrowful reproach to his sleeping disciples—"could ye not watch with me one hour?" If your Lent has been mis-spent—try to atone for it now.

A NEWSPAPER'S FUNCTION

HERE are many varying views as to what a newspaper should and should not be, but everybody will agree that the chief function of a newspaper is to print the news. It would not be a true newspaper if it suppressed legitimate news or colored news to misrepresent the truth or distorted it in order to injure private persons or the public welfare.

A newspaper, to be worthy of public respect and confidence, must be fair to all, impartial and devoted to the public interest. Necessarily it must be without fear of intimidation when it publishes the day's news. It can not take the dictum of any one who wishes to suppress news, or distort it or misuse it for private advantage.

A request to a newspaper to suppress legitimate news is similar to a request to a merchant to quit selling a certain legitimate kind of goods. In order to succeed a merchant must carry all kinds of goods within the scope of his service to the public. He can not accept dictation from outsiders, because he must exercise his own judgment or fail. A newspaper, if worthy of the name, caters to the entire public, and therefore it must carry all the news that is fit to print. It is a department store of news, and it must maintain its lines full and without adulteration.

Whenever a newspaper begins to grind a private axe the public becomes aware of the imposition. Whenever a newspaper of general circulation favors a certain individual, group, class or section it risks its reputation and is immediately indicted for bad faith. Unless it mends its ways it loses prestige and finally disappears. Its only means of existence is the confidence of the public; hence, if managed properly, it refuses to abuse the public confidence by suppressing true news, by distorting it or by misusing it for private advantage.

THE DOCTRINE OF HATE

ONE of the most famous cartoons published by London Punch during the war portrayed a German family indulging in its "morning's hate." The satire hit the mark. It was little exaggerated. The German people had been urged by their rulers to hate bitterly and incessantly those whom they were fighting. It was part of an organized experiment in psychology. The notorious "hymn of hate" was sung at public assemblages and in the homes as well as at the front. No nation with a sense of humor could have taken it so seriously. But "thoughts are things" and the German professors told the authorities that by constantly dwelling on the thought of hating England the fighting spirit of the people would be stimulated.

Now once more false friends are urging the German people to hate. Geheimrat Kirdorf, known as "the aged dean of the Ruhr industrialists," made a speech before the national association of German employers, the other day, in which he said: "The seeds of hate sown by the French in the Ruhr have entered German hearts and sprouted the tree of national unity. All who want to stand with the Ruhr in this fight should let the seeds of hate enter their hearts, for hate against the enemy is the best means of mobilizing the nation's forces in national unity. The fight can only be waged successfully with the slogan, 'Hate against the enemy, love for the fatherland.'"

Are not the German people shrewd enough to see that the doctrine of hate didn't work before and is not likely to do so now? The preaching of the gospel of hate in the World War led to deeds of frightfulness which made humanity shudder. The solution of the present difficulty in the Ruhr is in Germany's hands. Let her give an honest undertaking to try to pay what she owes France. That will bring desired results much more quickly than making faces and shaking fists and calling names. That hate business is out of date.

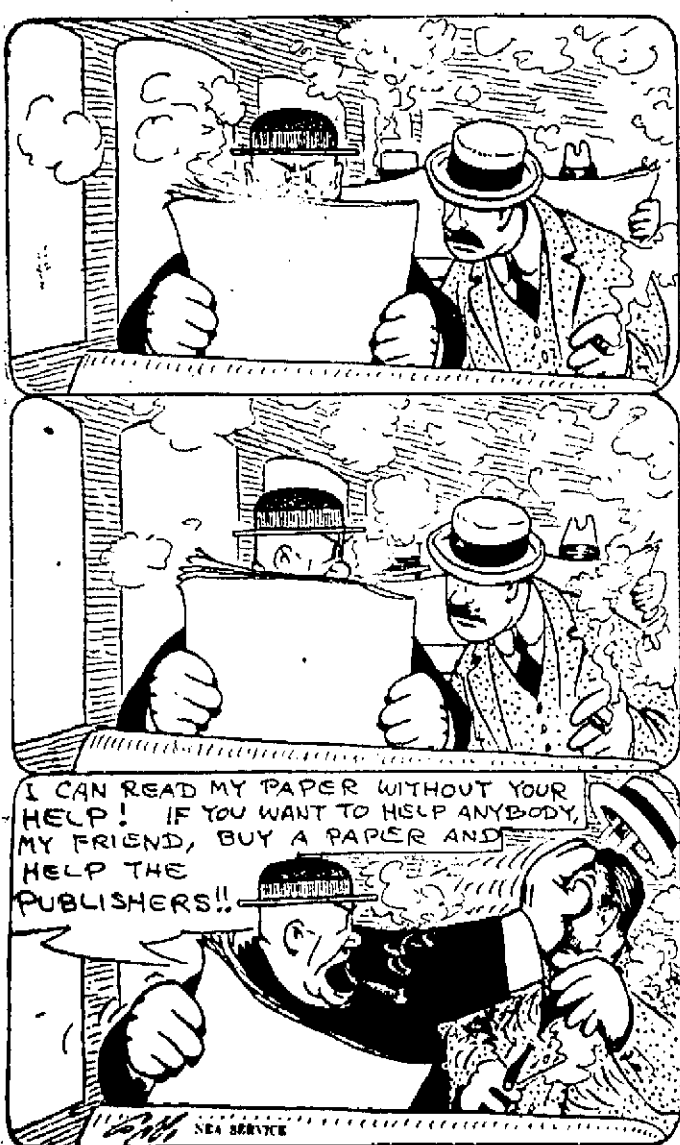

THE WORK CURE

THE Italian ambassador speaks an impressive truth when he says that the only cure for the world's economic ills is work. America has long since accepted this truth, and the sooner other nations accept it the better. So long as peoples allow themselves to be led along so-called short cuts to economic recovery they will remain in the slough into which, as a result of the great war, they have been plunged. Productive labor is the only way out.

An increasing element in Europe is coming to realize this, and on the spread of such realization depends the salvation of Europe. To the credit of Italy it may be said that its people have grasped the necessity of putting their house in order by returning to work. That country is now well on the road to recovery, thanks to the common sense and industry of its people.

EVERETT TRUE

BY CONDO

New York-Day-By-Day

BY A. D. MONTAGUE

NEW YORK, March 27.—Manhattan paid a great tribute to the Sob Sisters of Park Row the other evening. Officially it was a dinner to the Newspaper Woman's Club and all the celebrities of the town were there.

Will Rogers, the toastmaster, anticipated many came because they were taking no chances, having "a piece put in the papers about them." The newspaper women of New York might fill a Florida chorus of today from a pulchritudinous standpoint.

Nearly all who are married have chosen newspaper writers. Two have married editors, but the lure of the city room has never departed. The open hearth cannot compensate for the thrill of murder trials, society divorces and the like.

Among New York Sob Sisters—and each to put it mildly is easy to look at—are Zoe Beckley, Jane Dixon, Helen Rowland, Martha Coman, Anne Dunlap, Agnes Smith, Emma Bugbee, Louella O. Parsons, Theodore Dean, Baird Leonard, Beatrice Fairfax and Caroline Harding.

The experienced woman writer is one of the highest salaried members of a New York editorial staff. Aside from their newspaper duties, most of them write fiction and verse. Barely do they get more than one assignment a day which gives them much spare time.

Their salaries range from $100 to $200 a week and there are several who are said to make $20,000 a year. They see more of life behind the scenes than any other class of women. Adventure is always around the corner.

For instance, at the dinner given to them one received a telegram from her chief. She gave instructions for her to sail at 10 o'clock the next morning to a remote point in Egypt—a journey of eight months' duration.

Until recently the electric sign heralding Marion Davies in a photograph on Broadway was the biggest ever seen along the street. Now it has been topped by a sign advertising a movie by Emerson Hough. It has 14,000 bulbs and cost $15,000. The theatre was closed for five days to install it. The sign is a splendid tribute to one of the grand old men of literature. Mr. Hough began writing at the age of 42 and is now in his late 70's and his output is not diminishing.

DUTY

(New York Herald.)
Alone into the beauty
Of the calm of the night,
I fled before stern Duty—
Sought refuge in delight.

But the gold and silver glory
Of the moonbeams all around
Turned to monsters grim and hoary
Skirting wildly o'er the ground.

And the cold and silent spaces,
Stretching far on either side,
Mocked me with a hundred faces
Of the Duty I denied—

For the promised dream of beauty
Brought to swift and sure release,
I went back and faced my Duty
And, returning, found my peace.

"What is?" asked the cop, who had

"Why, that the traction company guage of the latter was particularly emphatic and free. Thinking to ease matters, one of the navvies turned to the curate and said:

"Look 'ere, guv'ner, you'll 'ave to excuse us chaps. We're a rough and ready crowd and calls a spade a spade."

"Most extraordinary," replied the curate. "Judging by the run of conversation, I should have imagined you'd call it anything but that."— London Opinion.

Considering Health
"You insist on shaking hands with as many of your constituents as possible?"

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum.
"Campaigning interrupts my golf and I need the physical exercise."—Washington Star.

Always Tell the Truth

Lester—"Last night I was out riding with Mabel when the car broke down six miles from town and I had to spend the evening fixing it. What would you have done?"

Sam—"The same thing you did,
Jimmy (gloomily)—"Yes, and I only wouldn't have lied about it."— Temple Topics.

The Lad's View

Grandmother—"My dear boy, you've grown to be the living image of your father. You have your father's eyes, you have his nose, you have his mouth—"

Jimmy (gloomily)—"Yes, and I have his trousers, too!"—London Tit-Bits.

Old Dobbin has his faults, but you didn't have to pour hot water on him to get him started on a cold morning.
